A Small Majority of MFLCs Could Decide the Future for all MFLCs at a Particular Installation

If the union collects signatures on union authorization cards or a petition from only 30% of the MFLCs it wants to represent, it can file a petition with the National Labor Relations Board to trigger an election.

If only 20 MFLCs out of 50 eligible MFLCs show up to vote, and 11 MFLCs vote for the union then all 50 MFLCs will be represented.

Signing a union authorization card or petition is risky. It can lead to union representation whether you want it or not.
